

Public Health
England

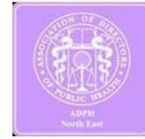

fuse

The Centre for Translational
Research in Public Health

NHS

NIHR | Clinical Research
Network North East and North Cumbria

North East Public Health Conference 2020

2020 and beyond: time to turn talk into action - prioritising prevention and reducing health inequalities for all

12 March 2020, Sunderland

Theme

The theme of the conference will be underpinned by the Marmot Review's six policy objectives, showcasing local practice and research from across the North East:

- Give every child the best start in life
- Enable all children, young people & adults to maximise their capabilities and have control over their lives
- Create fair employment and good work for all
- Ensure a healthy standard of living for all
- Create and develop healthy and sustainable places and communities
- Strengthen the role and impact of ill-health prevention

Aim and objectives

The aim of the conference is to share learning and reflect upon experiences of tackling health inequalities across the public health system to ensure prioritisation of prevention in the North East. The conference will:

- Showcase examples of innovative public health practice that prioritises prevention across the North East
- Raise awareness of research to build the evidence base of new ways of working
- Foster collaborative and cross-sector working across the public health system to tackle emerging and future public health challenges
- Provide an opportunity to network with colleagues across the region
- Promote an asset-based approach to improve the public's health and reduce health inequalities

Who should attend?

The conference is aimed at anyone working in or involved with public health. Attendees are welcome from local authorities, Public Health England, NHS, academics, the voluntary and community sector, and wider public health partners.

Registration and abstract submission

It will be possible to book your place to attend the conference from late November, and Public Health England will be in touch about this once registration opens. In the meantime, you can now submit an abstract to be considered for oral presentation at the conference. Please visit the abstract submission page for full information.